Alliance and Collective Action for an Ethical development*

Bordeaux - June 25-27, 2018

*Pôle Juridique et Judiciaire,
Université de Bordeaux
France*

Final corrected version: July 6, 2018

université
de BORDEAUX

Located in Bordeaux, GREThA (Research Group in Theoretical and Applied Economics) is a joint research unit (Unité Mixte de Recherche), associating University of Bordeaux (UB) and the French National Research Centre (CNRS). The unit gathers 60 permanent active researchers, with an activity of constant research and scientific production and develops research programmes in economics with a strong interdisciplinary orientation on many topics that are addressed therein. The scientific project for the period 2016-2020 is organised around three main research lines: I) Innovation, Science, Industries; II) Ecosystem Dynamics (natural resources, cities and complexity); III) Inequalities, Development and Globalisation. GREThA researchers working on the latter programme develop their scientific investigations around three axes: (1) Norms, behavioral economics and decisions: ethics and inequalities; (2) Development dynamics and living conditions; (3) Economic History: international trade and financial globalization.

The International Development Ethics Association is a unique international, cross-cultural, and interdisciplinary group of philosophers, development and environmental theorists, and practitioners. The aim of IDEA is threefold:

1. To apply ethical reflection to development goals and strategies and to relations between the “North” and “South”. Numerous groups are concerned with international development. Only IDEA, however, explicitly formulates and applies ethical principles to the theory and practice of global, national, and local development.
2. To effect ethically sound development policies, institutions, and practices. In the light of reasonable ethical principles, IDEA is committed to bringing about improvements in development and environmental policies, institutions and projects.
3. To promote solidarity, mutual support, and interchange among those development theorists and practitioners throughout the world who are seeking to implement ethically better development paradigms and strategies.

Fondée le 1er janvier 2012, l'Unité Mixte de recherches Internationale, UMI Résiliences, est le résultat d'une double tutelle CIREC/ IRD enrichie de partenariats institutionnels issus de collaborations scientifiques anciennes sur chacun de nos sites d'implantation:

- en Côte d'Ivoire le CERAP, l'ENSEA et l'UAOB
- à Madagascar l'UCM
- au Sénégal l'UCAD

Elle s'est fixée pour objectif original d'approfondir les connaissances sur les dynamiques sociales et socio-environnementales de fragilité, d'adaptation et de récupération, dans un monde marqué par des chocs et des crises de plus en plus fréquentes et sévères.

A partir d'une série d'études de terrain en Côte d'Ivoire, à Madagascar et au Sénégal, elle étudie les stratégies que les individus, ménages et communautés mettent en œuvre pour s'adapter et survivre lorsqu'ils sont affectés par des changements ou des chocs de nature environnementale, sociale, économique ou politique.

The Fund for Research in Economic Ethics (FREE) is a scientific association, founded in 2005. It aims to promote researches that cross issues of ethics, economics and development. For this purpose, it proposes an open access of numerous documents and publishes an academic journal: Ethique et Economique / Ethics and Economics (ethique-economique.net)

Vijayendra Rao

Vijayendra Rao is currently a Lead Economist in the Development Research Group of the World Bank. He integrates his training in economics with theories and methods from anthropology, sociology and political science to study the social, cultural, and political context of extreme poverty in developing countries. Dr. Rao has published on a variety of subjects that include dowries and domestic violence in India, the economics of celebrations, sex work in Calcutta, participatory development, village democracy and deliberation, and interdisciplinary approaches to public policy. He co-edited Culture and Public Action, and History, Historians and Development Policy, and co-authored the 2006 World Development Report on Equity and Development. Most recently, with Ghazala Mansuri, he co-authored the World Bank's Policy Research Report on Localizing Development: Does Participation Work?

Dr. Rao obtained a BA (Economics, Statistics, Sociology) from St. Xavier's College - Bombay (now Mumbai), a PhD from the University of Pennsylvania, was a post-doctoral fellow at the Economics Research Center and an Associate of the Committee on Southern Asian Studies at the University of Chicago, and taught at the University of Michigan and Williams College before joining the World Bank's Research Department in 1999. He serves on the editorial boards of several journals, and is a member of the Successful Societies Program at the Canadian Institute for Advanced Research (CIFAR), and affiliated with research institutes and NGOs in India, the US, and the UK.
